- E. SESSION SUMMARY: Summary of Information

The area is similar to a desert-like environment but more reminiscent of the steppes or central plains. There are wavy plants, areas of water and mud, exposed hard rock and a structure made from wood. The wind is dry, dusty and takes your breath away. Loose sand is being blown low to the ground surface. There are open expanses, low vegetation, heat waves can be seen on the horizon and it is repressively hot at times. However, it looks like it should be very hot but it isn't right now.

A woman is wearing a garment that is being flapped around in the wind. A little girl is sobbing. There are banners, "waist clothes" and square shaped rock alignments. The latter is associated with the concept of enforcement and strengthening. There is a ramming sensation associated with a long flared-out object.

There is the concept of "free spiritedness"; almost a "Woodstock" type of care free attitude.

There are triangularly shaped objects which sit on the sand. They are shimmering and appear metallic. The entire setting is reminiscent of a nomadic group in a desert environment. (The scene when the monolith first appears to the proto-human apes in 2001 also comes to mind).
